THIS MUCH I KNOW OF JOHNSONITES CANCER AWARENESS ASSEMBLY

Our school conducted a Child Cancer Awareness assembly to spread awareness about cancer in children. We spoke about the common causes of childhood cancer such as genetic factors, weak immunity, exposure to harmful radiation, and unhealthy environmental conditions. The importance of early detection, regular health check-ups, and proper medical care was explained.

We also discussed precautions like maintaining a healthy lifestyle, avoiding exposure to toxins, and seeking medical help when early symptoms are noticed. As part of the activity, students were asked to draw pictures related to cancer awareness, hope, and strength, which helped them express support and empathy for children fighting cancer. The assembly helped everyone understand the importance of awareness, care, and compassion.

Sankranti Celebration

Right before the Sankranti holidays an assembly was conducted in the spirit of the festival. Sankranti is a harvest festival that marks new beginnings, gratitude, and joy.

The assembly began with a brief explanation of what Sankranti is and why it is celebrated across India and the importance of the Sun, farmers, and nature in our lives.

This was followed by an explanation of why kites are flown during Sankranti, highlighting how kite flying symbolises happiness, togetherness, and welcoming positive energy.

To make the assembly interactive and engaging, a simple and fun activity was conducted where students actively participated and shared their thoughts related to Sankranti.

The assembly helped everyone understand the cultural significance of the festival while also spreading festive spirit and enthusiasm among students.

From Whispers to Wisdom: On how information changes and why citations matter

In the advisory session conducted by Aarthi Ma'am, students were divided into 4 groups and played a game called 'Chinese Whisper', which involved students to pass a sentence that they heard from the previous person to the subsequent person. When the sentence came to the last person in the group, both the first and last students of the group told their lines and we were shocked to hear how much the sentences differ. This game was entertaining and informational as we learned how easily information and knowledge can be distorted. Then we truly understood the importance of citing our resources.

Next, we were engaged in an activity where each of the groups were given different texts and assigned specific tasks. For example, the group I was a part of had received a scene from Macbeth, and we were tasked to convey the message of the scene as well as distort the intended meaning all the while using direct quotation from the text. This activity made us learn how one has the power to control the narrative of the knowledge they choose to share, how rephrasing and resharing written information can lead to loss of information and other discrepancies and why citing the appropriate source in any academic work is of utmost importance and aligns with the principles and practices of academic integrity.

Election Day

It was a bright cold day in December, and the clocks were striking ten, I think, or maybe eleven. Everyone was in their jolly Christmas spirits, slightly aware of the fact that this day would decide the leaders of their cohort, that is the Class of 2027. The Nineteenth of December had Jatin and Akshath, good friends all the way back from eighth grade, go against each other for the position of the President. The same day also had Shourya, Rishith, Yusra, Nithya, Amulya and Saday have a free-for-all to decide the person who'd assist either Jatin or Akshath. The speeches started in the Advisory session, one better than another. From Amulya's minor glares to Shourya's poor laptop being slammed shut, every next speech hyped everyone up. But in the end, it really was the person who'd been the best since the last few months, winning the elections. Mr. Naresh and Mr. Upen built up enough suspense that all the candidates almost had their hearts beating fast. Then, the names were announced, it was Jatin for President and Saday for General Secretary. Congratulations to them!!!

Investiture Ceremony

An investiture ceremony is not just an event to present badges or sashes. It is an important time to recognise student leadership, team spirit and wisdom.

At JIB, student leadership is a core element of the student body. A leader doesn't necessarily have to carry a title — he or she is a role model for reinforcing communication, integrity, gratitude and appreciation among team members.

For the year 2026, the presented positions of the JIB STUCO are the President, General Secretary and the R.A.C.E. captains. Sai Jatin, Saday Reddy, Atiq, Shloka, Himanish and Amulya respectively have been elected as the STUCO members for this year.

Each one of them represented the qualities of proactiveness, creativity, balance, integrity and amicability. As an outgoing Cultural Head, I felt immense pride and gratitude to host this ceremony alongside the outgoing Sports Head, Advait, and honour the newly elected members. DPC Ma'am, Mrs. Rita and the respective house guardians sashed the new STUCO while the outgoing members — Mythreyi Panamgipalli, Maanvitha Kodati, Chaitra Badam, Sneha Puppala and Dheeraj Reddy shared heartfelt memories they have made in their tenure with their houses and badged the new STUCO.

As we place the responsibility of maintaining discipline and togetherness among the student body with the newly elected STUCO, we also intended to recognise the kind of unseen pressure it might create for them. We shall encourage them to believe in themselves, delegate and uplift their peers. Wish them all the very best for this new year of being leaders and continuing the legacy of student leadership at JIB.

New STUCO

As the President of JIB, I would like to say that I shall carry the legacy of the student council forward and put all my efforts for a better, stronger, and united student body. I look forward to working with my fellow STUCO members, and the student body. Under my leadership I will ensure that every voice is heard and every student is given a platform to showcase their talent. Being together as one despite hardships is the motto I stand for.

New STUCO

The Investiture Ceremony on January 17th was more than just a formal occasion; it was a testament to trust, responsibility, and the spirit of student leadership. Elected as the General Secretary of the Core Student Council made this event unforgettable for me. Standing on stage, clad in my badge before classmates, seniors, teachers, and school leaders, I felt both humbled and invigorated. The ceremony reminded me that while roles may change, our values and responsibilities remain strong. Watching fellow council members take their oaths highlighted that true leadership relies on cooperation, discipline, and respect. I hereby dedicate myself to fulfilling my duties sincerely, supporting my peers, and enriching our school community.

New STUCO

We recently had an Investiture Ceremony in our school, which was a very special and memorable event for me. I was honoured to be appointed as a captain of Raion house. The presence of the parents made the occasion even more meaningful. Our teachers formally sashed us, symbolising the responsibilities we were about to take on. The outgoing captains from Grade 12 delivered inspiring speeches, sharing about their journey, experiences, and valuable advice on leadership. After the speech, the Grade 12 captains badged us with our captain badges. Receiving the badge was a proud and unforgettable moment for me. The encouragement from the seniors made me feel recognised and valued and the ceremony filled me with a sense of responsibility and determination.

New STUCO

Being part of the Investiture has given me a strong sense of responsibility and belonging within the school community. This will push me to be more reliable, mindful, and accountable. Being elected as the Ace house captain has made me more conscious of my actions and decisions. It has motivated me to contribute more actively to my house, support my peers, and uphold the values of the school consistently. Overall, the experience has been grounding and empowering.

New STUCO

The Investiture Ceremony was a moment of great pride for me as I was formally invested as the Captain of our House, Canis. I had been elected a few weeks before the ceremony, and my parents being present made it memorable. After a short speech by the outgoing captain, who had also been my mentor, he invested me with his badge. Our House-in-Charge then put the Canis sash on me, marking my responsibilities and the spirit for the House that I will be expected to have.

Although I was a bit apprehensive about my new role, my previous experience and active participation in house activities, makes me confident that I am prepared to take up any new challenges ahead, and lead Canis to win the House cup, for the second time in a row.

New STUCO

The investiture ceremony was truly something that brought me utmost joy. It all started when my house collectively decided to elect me to represent them as the house captain. The process was quick, it started with a speech and ended with announcing the winners.

Me and four others got elected to be the house captains for our respective houses. This led to the investiture ceremony taking place on the 17th of January where all the members of STUCO, including the house captains get badged and swear to take on their duties and responsibilities. As I was saying the pledge, after being badged in front of all my class mates, I felt this sense of duty and happiness take over me.

I believe that my duty as the house captain and as a member of STUCO is to treat everyone with kindness and equality. To give everyone in my house a fair voice and help form connections that will hopefully last a lifetime. I hope to maintain positive relationships with the teachers along with my peers. To end off, I just want to solemnly say that I am so thankful for everyone that has voted for me and have entrusted me with this opportunity. I promise that I will try my absolute best to not let anyone down.

Republic Day Celebration

The IB students, along with the ICSE and ISC students, put up several impressive performances on Republic Day. We proudly represented the IB by presenting a skit based on the theme “Go Swadeshi!”. The Awareness Club and the Rhythms and Beats Club collaborated to spread awareness about sustainable choices. Through our performance, we promoted the use of indigenous fabrics and discouraged wearing polyester clothing, as it is largely made of plastic and harmful to the environment.

The ICSE students presented various dance performances and a powerful drama on Rani Jhansi Lakshmibai, which was truly eye-catching. Their performances inspired everyone with a strong sense of patriotism. All the students participated with great enthusiasm and confidence. They worked together as a team and showed discipline throughout the event. The audience cheered loudly, encouraging the performers. The energy and spirit of the students made the celebration lively and memorable. Overall, the day was celebrated with great enthusiasm, unity, and national pride."
